

In What Ways Do You Like to Think?

Select all of the following statements that resonate with you:

- I like to come up with many ideas and a variety of ideas.
- I often go beyond the obvious to consider the unique and unexpected.
- When an idea is presented, I like expanding on it and taking it further.
- I like to simplify, clarify, and get to the essence of a problem.
- I don't like to rush to close down a problem or project too quickly without depth of thought.
- I like to use intuition and empathy to understand how someone else might be thinking.
- I enjoy taking ideas and building scenarios to give them meaning in the real world.
- I like to make cross connections among unrelated ideas and situations.
- I need to get visual about concepts, ideas, and processes in order to understand a problem and communicate ideas.
- I enjoy going beyond the concrete to imagine new possibilities.
- I value learning and working using multiple senses—movement, sound, taste, touch, smell.
- I often take a new perspective on something to see things from a different angle.
- I pay attention to what is behind the scenes or what is not clearly revealed or expressed.
- I like to rethink barriers and assumptions that we might not be aware of.
- I value and appreciate a sense of humor when working with others.
- I like to think into the future, imagining change and possibilities beyond the here and now.
